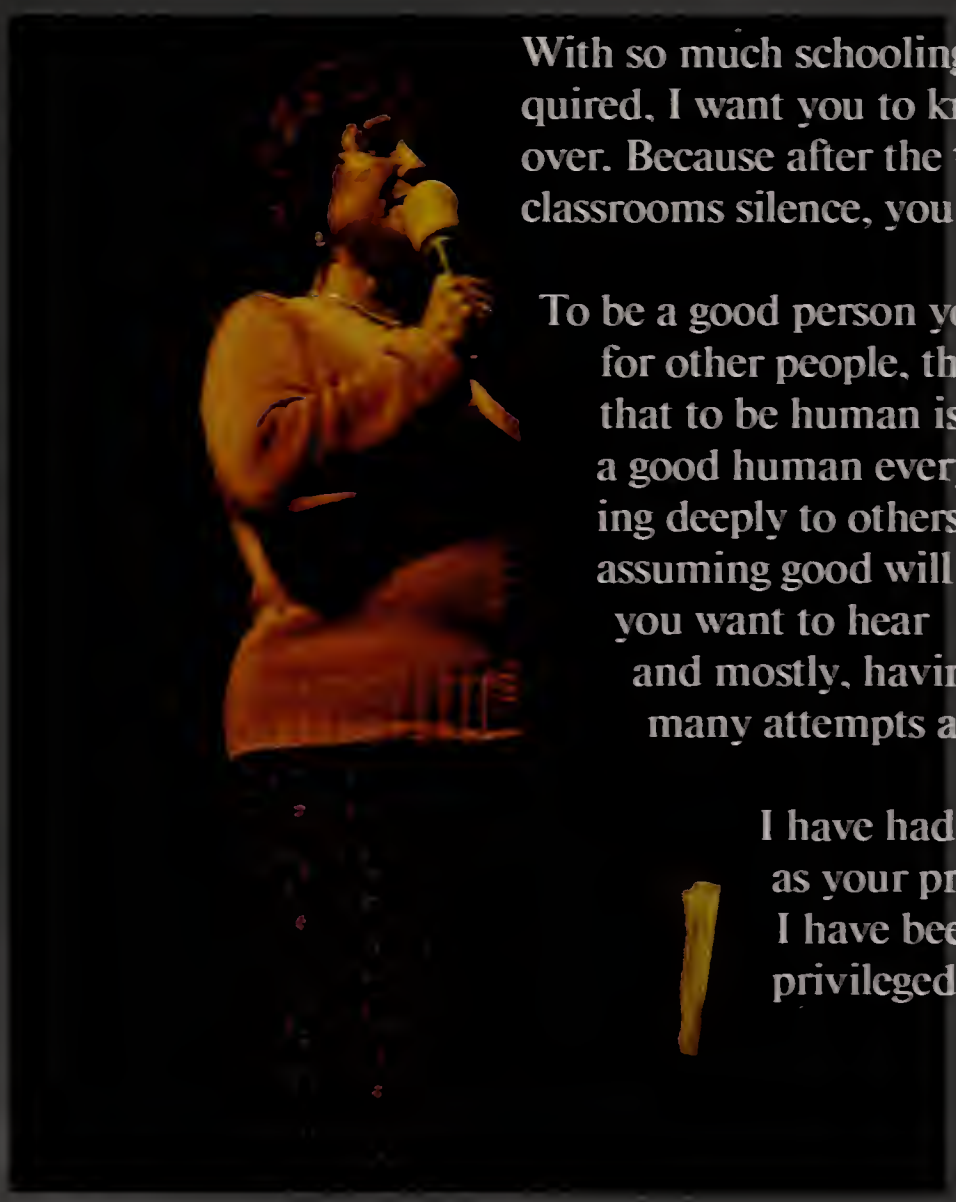
Each time I drive by the high school and see the athletes playing in our fields, my heart is full. I love the sight of the running, kicking whistle-blowing activity of fall and spring sports. When I go down to the gym or the ice rink and see the students shooting free throws and skating or wander in the Performing Arts Center as the band or strings are preparing for a concert. To see the actors on stage learning their lines, the television actors preparing for the weekly news, the journalism office humming with activity, the art classes lining up to critique their work - these are the practices that make being a principal a worthy profession.

I realize that all this practice is not the real performance or the actual game or the final publication, but secretly it is in the practicing of something that one's mind changes, becomes more capable of understanding new things. We know the muscles have muscle memory which is how we become stronger; we know the skin has sense memory which is how we know not to put our hand on the hot stove; but, what we often forget is the mind has great plasticity and capacity to grow and improve throughout our lifetimes.

When I was in high school, my father would force my brother and me to get up at 6 a.m. to learn the "new math" on PBS. Then when he returned from work, we would retire to the attic room and study chemistry. Although at the time, it was a torture, and I have forgotten more than I even learned about the "new math," I do remember the clarifying practice of the mind those sessions gave us.



With so much schooling behind you and so much knowledge acquired, I want you to know that the practicing is not over. It is never over. Because after the textbooks close, the fields empty and the classrooms silence, you will always be in practice as a human being.

To be a good person you must practice each day the full compassion for other people, the open-heartedness that comes from realizing that to be human is to be flawed but not hopeless. Practice being a good human everyday beginning today. That will mean listening deeply to others, eliminating gossip from your vocabulary, assuming good will even when what you're hearing is not what you want to hear and mostly, having great respect for yourself throughout your many attempts at perfection.

I have had the privilege of knowing you for many years as your principal, your neighbor, a mom and a teacher. I have been truly privileged.

-Peg Regan, principal

Assistant principal Stephen Nixon is only moving down the hall, but that move entitles big change. Mr. Nixon, who has been a teacher, Dean of students, and assistant principal at the high school, will now add the title of principal to his resume starting July 1st, after being appointed by superintendent of schools James Weiss last week.

"The selection process was long, but good. There were many questions and interviews, but questions came from many different groups which allowed me to observe what those groups were passionate about," said Mr. Nixon.
"I got to speak to some of the candidates when they came to the school for the day. The students had time to ask the candidates questions and Mr. Nixon was the most qualified," said senior Cooper Johnson.

This is not the first big change for Mr. Nixon, who moved from New Jersey to be a history teacher at the high school. "New Jersey is where I grew up. I went to college there and then I came here ten years ago with my wife after I had answered an ad for teacher and got the job. My hope is to bring the ideas that I brought to the classroom to the school-wide curriculum," said Mr. Nixon.
"I remember making movies for his history classes. I was never a big fan of history, but Nixon had this way of making it interesting," said 2005 graduate Pat Joyce.

One of the constants in Mr. Nixon's life is his fascination with King Henry VIII and his wives. Mr. Nixon's windowsill is decorated with antique prints of the king and the king's six wives. "I wrote my Master's thesis on Henry and his six wives, so I started this collection. My wife actually made me bring them to work since I had collected too many," he said. On his wall, there also hangs a student's drawing of Mr. Nixon portrayed as Henry VIII.

Another one of the passions in Mr. Nixon's life is music. In his post high-school days in the 70's, he was a singer in his band Nightwing. "Music has always been a big thing for me. We mostly sung originals and we had an Aerosmith, Led Zeppelin sound to us," said Mr. Nixon. Mr. Nixon's passion for history and music is just as strong as his dedication to education, as he is working on attaining his doctorate in educational leadership through the University of Sarasota online.

"He's such a dedicated teacher. He always knew how to teach to every student. They all did well and enjoyed his classes," said history department head Quinton Bannister.
Said senior Sophia Welch, "Even though I'm not going to be here next year, I so excited for the other students to have Mr. Nixon as their principal. They are so lucky."

While it seems chaos decorates Jim Novack's desk, he will finally have to clean up the ten years worth of papers, books, CDs, and costume materials that he has collected on his desk. Mr. Novack, who is the Director-Manager of the Performing Arts Center, will be retiring at the end of this school year. Many know that Mr. Novack is the man who runs the Performing Arts Center but he is also the person who brings the structure to life. His job includes spending a great deal of time working with faculty and students in preparation for the high school's annual winter play. "I don't always take myself seriously, but I take my work seriously and I treat my students as colleagues," said Mr. Novack. Jim Novack is the only Director-Manager of the PAC that MVRHS has had. He originally got his current job here at the school in 1998 after the structure had been completed the year before. The school decided that the PAC needed a caretaker that would be able to devote all of their attention to the structure. Mr. Novack has done so while earning the respect of his colleagues. Mr. Novack is a fan of thrift stores and collecting items such as recording materials, paintings, and anything technology related. Said Mr. Novack, "My motto is to have two of everything. On my gravestone it is going to say that and then on my second gravestone. . ."
Mr. Novack was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease about two and a half years ago and can no longer manage the PAC. He would like though to continue working at the high school with a less labor-intensive job.

R.I.P

There are some things in life that we, as humans can't understand. Losing loved ones like Gilford D. Clemons (Gil), a custodian at MVRHS, and James "Harpo" Andrews, an Oak Bluffs line bus driver at MVRHS falls into that category.

Mr. Clemons was born in April 16, 1942. He worked at MVRHS for eight years and was a full time employee. He loved a his job, and everyone loved him. He had a wonderful family and he had great times with them. He was married to Jean D. Clemons and was a father to a son who now lives in Boston, and a daughter who still lives on MV and works at the Steam Ship Authority. He also had grandsons and granddaughters. These loved ones enriched his life greatly.

Mr. Andrews was born on December 14, 1952. He had been working as a bus driver for the Oak Bluffs School and for the MVRHS for the past two years. He loved working with kids, and was a full time bus driver for both schools. He also drove children to the Boys and Girls Club. He was married to Cindy Andrews, with whom he had two daughters and a son. He also had a grandson and two granddaughters.

Mr. Clemons passed away on September 21, 2006 at the age of 64. After finishing his work in school that day, he went home to clean the house before his wife arrived home. He had a heart attack while vacuuming, and was found still standing with the vacuum in his hands. He died working.

Mr. Andrews passed away on February, 6 of 2006. James died of a heart attack. He was a loving father to his son, James, and his daughters, Megan and Tabitha Andrews.

Both Mr.. Gil Clemons, and Mr.. "Harpo" Andrews are sorely missed here at MVRHS, and neither will be forgotten. On behalf of the Martha's Vineyard Regional High School, we would like to bid farewell to two excellent men, and wish their friends and families the best of luck moving into the future.

Freshmen Profiles:

"It's great; it's better than my old school', says James Bagnall who graduated from the Edgartown School last year. He likes the freedom of High School, and thinks that the classes are better scheduled than in elementary school. The high school is a bigger world where he makes new friends and meets new people. He did expect there to be more work and for it to be harder.

Last fall, James joined the school's JV football team as a proud starter on center. Since football season, he has been practicing in the weight room three days a week with the rest of the team. During the summer, they lift weights twice a week. James is willing to try out for the baseball team, but will likely stick to the Babe Ruth league.

In school, James is taking band, crafts and sculpture, German, and intro to computers for electives. He has been playing the baritone saxophone since the fourth grade. With football done for the season, he hopes to join the art club.

In the summer he likes to go to the beach, throw balls at the park, and go boating at the Great Pond. He enjoys playing video games, reading science fiction and mysteries, watching television, and eating. His favorite authors are Marsha Carp, DJ Machale, and Dan Brown. He likes to watch action, horror, and mystery movies. He also watches the Discovery Channel and Planet Earth. He likes to eat pizza and loves to try exotic foods, like escargot, wild boar, and bear.

James has a few ideas for college. He has some interest in geology, music, art, or following his father's footsteps as a marine biologist. When he is older, he would like to assist his father.

Filipe de Freitas, a Freshman, loves to play soccer. During summer time he enjoys hanging out with his friends, and working, but his favorite thing to do is to practice soccer. This practice has made him an excellent soccer player. When he entered the MVRHS he was asked to join the varsity soccer team. Being only 15 he was very proud to be a varsity player. He also likes to play video games, and be on the computer. He sees his soccer skills as his main talent.

Filipe lives with his family in Edgartown with his mom and his two younger sisters. While at home they only speak Portuguese, their first language, but at school Felipe speaks English very well.

Profiles:

Jaron Chaplin: senior and track superstar. He loves to run and play sports. He especially is interested in gymnastics, and can do backflips. He enjoys family, money, and food. His family is "great and very supportive," and he attends a family reunion every three years.

Jaron is of African American and Wampanoag descent. He likes to "go out and have a good time," but he says that in the summer his life is "work, work, work, work." He likes to work, and enjoys the independence that working gives him. He likes "doing things on his own," and feels good about making his own money. He has found a home at MVRHS, moving in from Miller Grove High School, a school of 2,000 in Atlanta GA.

Jaron is involved with Amnesty International and "Young Brothers to Men," two organizations led by Leo Frame. If you see Jaron, he will probaby be smiling.

Bethany Pennington was born in Pennsylvania and moved to West Tisbury in fourth grade. She has been playing soccer for about seven years. In the spring, she enjoys running track. She participates in the mile and the high jump. Bethany is musical as well, and has played the viola since she was in third grade. She is in the orchestra and in the string quartet, which plays in the Culinary Dining Room for Windemere. She is in the prestigious All Cape and South East orchestras. They are two statewide groups that bring together the most talented young musicians in the state.

Bethany is working hard and excelling with her Spanish. She is in Cultura Club. They are raising money for a trip to Boston and they will learn spanish dances, visit restaurants, and enjoy the city. Bethany is in a Bible Study group that meets once a month. She takes quizzes and has to memorize parts of the bible.

She also enjoys swimming, sailing, and skiing. She has been to Alaska and found that it was "beautiful" and not as cold as she thought it would be. Bethany has a younger sister in the 9th grade and a baby sister. Her mom is a gym teacher and her dad is a contractor.

During one summer, Bethany went to Peru. She went into villages to help children. She helped to build a church, wash their hair, performed a drama scene, served hot chocolate, washed clothes, and played soccer. She had the opportunity to work on her Spanish.

In college she wants to study foreign relations or history. Her dream is to travel and teach English in a Spanish-speaking country. She believes that "There is always a place to help and that [illegible] to do." She would love to live in a foreign country.

FOOTBALL

Football is big here at MVRHS. We always have a competitive team, and from the first game of the season up through the annual island cup, the school shows its support. The culmination of the season is marked by the famous Island cup, the annual football match against Nantucket. Leading up to the game is "spirit week," during which the four grades at MVRHS compete in various events to earn "spirit points" for their respective grades.

Girls' Soccer

"We have learned that the best athletes do not wear skirts and call them kilts, they wear shorts and simply call them "shorts." We have learned how to win and how to deal with loss. We know how to be there for one another and have come to understand the importance of being positive, even when the easiest solution is giving up. We know that Brazil should have beat Germany in the World Cup. And so what if our pump up CD skips once in a while? Thanks to Kia, we learned how to dance Soldja boy better than any other team. So keep your shoulder pads, goggles, and golf clubs, and we'll just keep ballin'."

Field Hockey

Of all the Fall sports football gets by far the most press, but here are two teams that should not be overlooked. Let us not forget that the varsity field hockey team beat Nantucket at home, and that the golf team had one of its best seasons ever, lead by its five seniors. The field hockey team welcomed a new coach, Leanne Dixon, and they are ready to improve upon their 5-8-5 record next year.

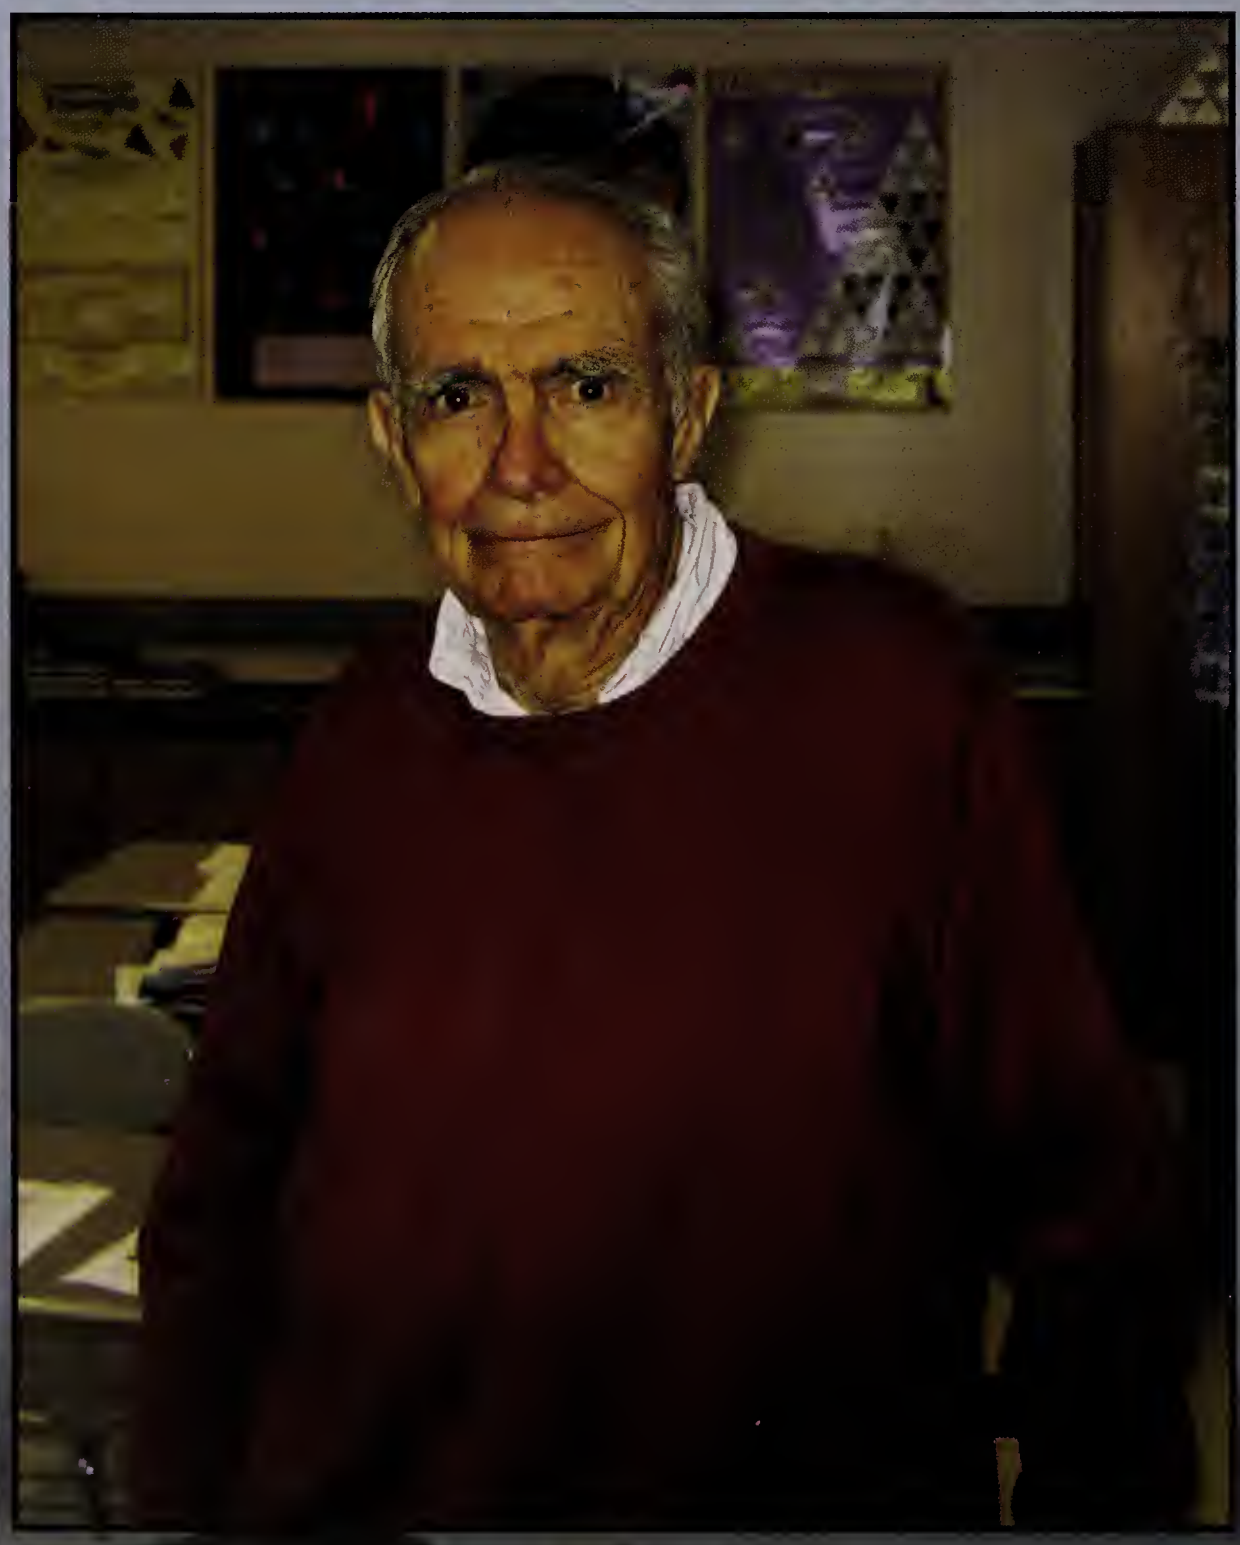
Profile: Mr. Good

"Be a go-giver, not the go-getter," advises MVRHS substitute teacher Mev Good. Words of wisdom such as these are common in Mr. Good's classroom. Coming from a man who has lived as rich a life as Mr. Good, these words are especially poignant. He remembers his high school experience, which included running the worlds fasted (printed) mile on his school's cinder track, when his high school yearbook listed his time at 3:04. He attended Princeton University where he majored in history, and he carries his diploma in his large brown briefcase.

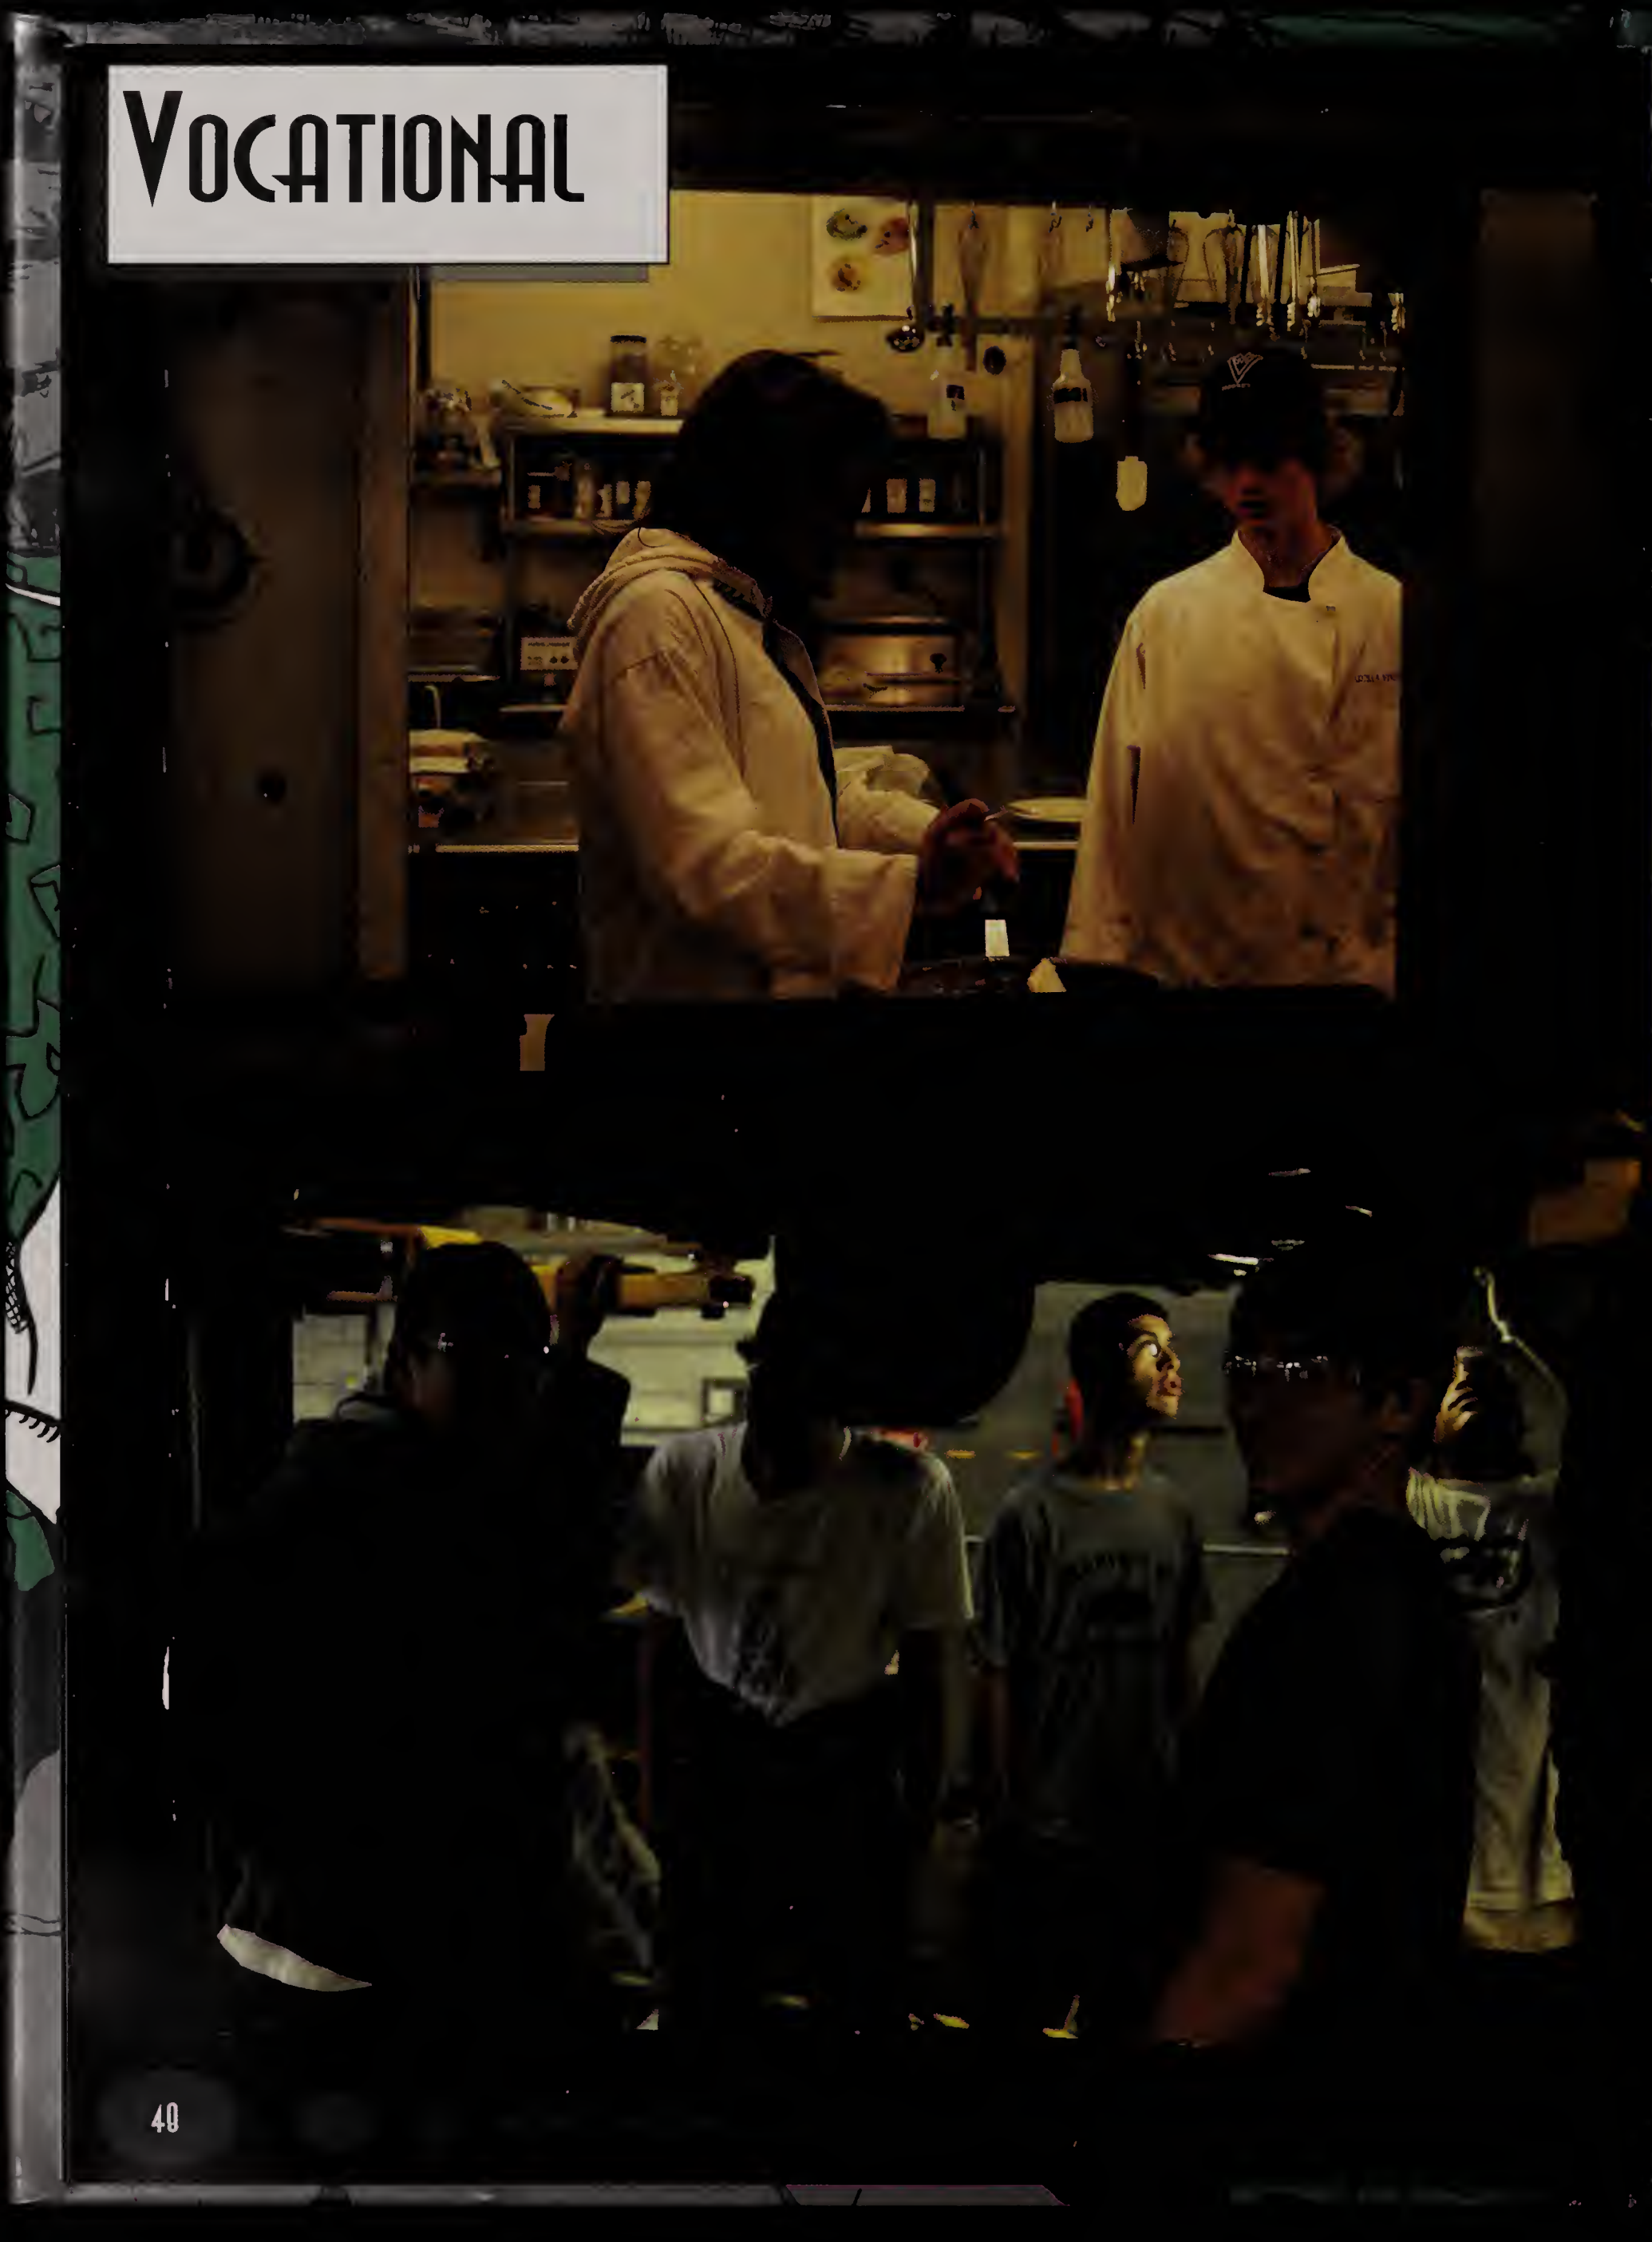
When WWII broke out Mr. Good enlisted in the 10th mountain division, and trained for combat in the mountains of Italy. His division was comprised of Olympic skiers, and mountaineers, and Mr. Good had never skied in his life. After his tenure in Italy he was set to be part of the first wave of troops attacking Japan, but was spared of this duty by the dropping of the atomic bomb, an action that Mr. Good says "probably saved my life."



Since, Mr. Good has worked as a tennis teacher and linesman (referee,) a college professor, a political organizer, and most recently a substitute teacher. He has six adult children, and numerous grandchildren. He is no ordinary substitute, but goes above and beyond what is asked of him. While I was visiting him he was finishing up some study questions for the movie he was showing today, Rasputin. Mr. Good enjoys subbing history classes, and he tries to make the subject matter interesting. He also believes that one cannot learn on an empty stomach, so he carries around buttered toast in his back pocket, for himself or a hungry student. He has a word of advice to give to all students: "They can take everything else away from you, but they can't take your education. [illegible] stay in school.

Vocational

VOCATIONAL



The Vocational Education program takes place in the classroom and the community with a strong emphasis on transition from school to the world of employment. There are five different vocational programs for students to choose from. They are described in the course catalog as follows:

FOOD PRODUCTION, MANAGEMENT, AND SERVICES
The objectives of the Food Production, Management, and Services Program are to develop professional knowledge and skills, which will lead to employment and advancement in the food service industry. This course will concentrate on the development of professional culinary skills in baking; vegetable and fruit preparation; meat, fish and poultry preparation as well as and soups, sauces, and dessert preparation. Realistic experience will be provided through the preparation and service of luncheons and dinners to community groups.

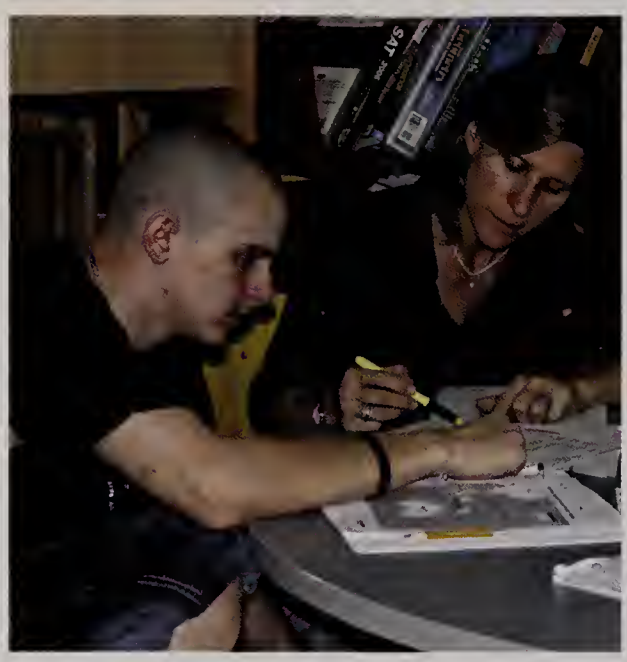
AUTO TECHNOLOGY
This course emphasizes why mechanical, electronic, and other technical malfunctions occur. Major areas of instruction include engine, transmission, differential, brake, suspension, carburetor, electronic fuel system, computerized engine control, electrical system, and automotive microcomputer system. Repair shop procedures will be used to prepare students for advanced educational training and professional employment. Opportunities in the auto/marine service industry now encompass wide ranging skill levels, beginning with basic repair and extending to microcomputer systems.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION
This course will prepare students for careers in early childhood education. On-site work experiences and observations in licensed group child care facilities enables students to accrue required center experience for teacher certification. Although the emphasis is on child care, development and guidance, students will also be introduced to curriculum web design, language and literacy development, sensory integration, appropriate practice and creative experiences for young children. Projects and research result in an assortment of handmade teaching tools by students for use in the field.

CONSTRUCTION TECHNOLOGY
The vocational student will be exposed to wood frame construction, its tools, practices and materials both in new construction, and remodeling. Highlighted in this area will be safe use, and care of basic hand tools and hand held power tools. The advancing student will then be challenged with interior and exterior finishing. The four-year student will be ready for an entry level job in a number of the building trades.

HORTICULTURE
This course of study offers the student the necessary information and experiences to choose horticulture as a career. Fundamentals, principles, and practices of landscaping construction, design and equipment use, along with greenhouse management, maintenance and the propagation and production of plants are components of the course curricula. An introduction to hydroponics, aquaculture, and aquaponics, their systems and uses are demonstrated in a full-scale hydroponics greenhouse. Island resources are used as a learning environment and laboratory.

Amos



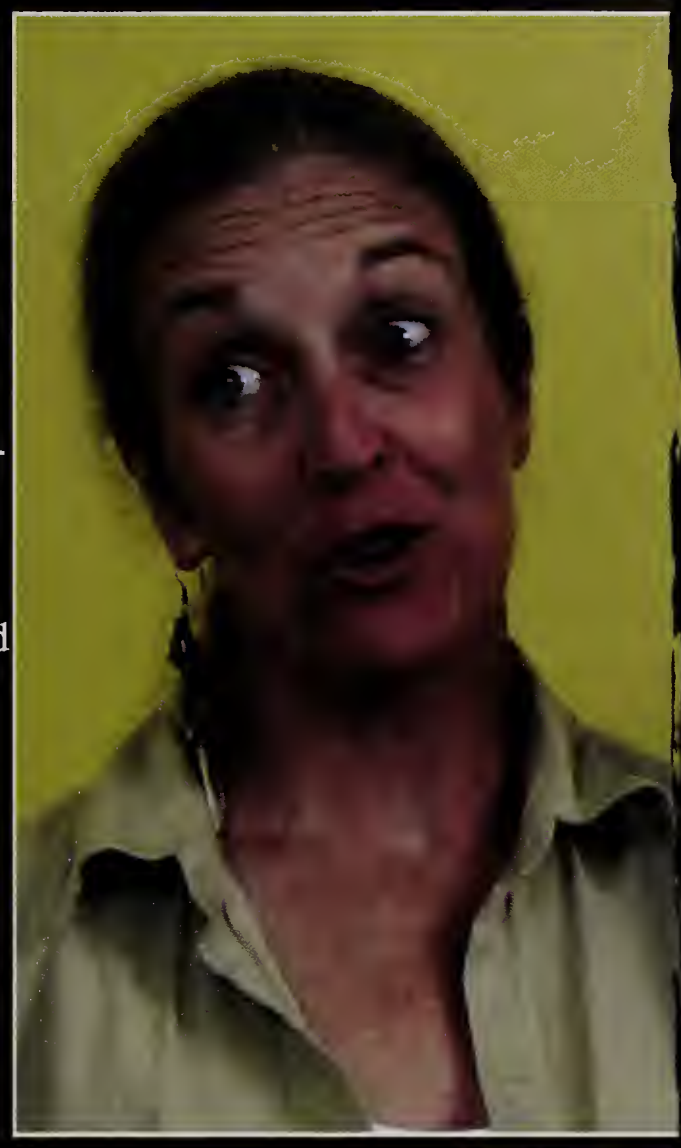
Janelle Guarino transferred to the Rebecca Amos Institute because the classes were smaller and there were fewer teachers. The learning environment is better for her and other students. Janelle does a work study every day at Stop and Shop and the Hyline. She also takes gym, two English classes, math, and Spanish. After school, she like to run and workout. She also loves to read poetry.

Even though she is in a different program, Janelle still has friends at the high school. She is allowed to have breaks and go home, but then she has to go back in school on time. The rules are very strict. Her classes are 50 minutes each and she is able to take courses at the high school with consent. Every Monday, the students and teachers meet from 9-10.

This January, Janelle is graduating from Rebecca Amos Institute and has been accepted to UMass Dartmouth, where she will further pursue her education. Janelle loves the island, and feels at home here. If she has children, she would like to come back here to raise them.

Hired by Peg Regan, Katharine Kavanagh has been the director of the Rebecca Amos Institute for seven years. This alternative program from the the high school is for students who learn differently. Classes run from about 10 am to 4 pm. The students make their own schedules, but have a core curriculum. Ms. Kavanagh teaches anything from government, to physiology. She has the help of Margaret D'Angelo, who has been in the program for six years teaching math and global studies. Kat Holter is a first year teacher for English and US History.

Ms. Kavanagh is a mother of two daughters and is a proud grandmother. She enjoys strolls on the beach with her grandson and dogs. Her hobbies are driving and reading trashy novels. She has been to Greece and Italy a few times. Ms. Kavanagh has known sign language since eighth grade. In the summers, she tutors kids and work with the RAI students. There is a waiting list and Ms. Kavanagh decides who she will invite to come back to the organization. There is a maximum of 22 students that are able to be in the program and there are 15 fifteen students involved. Ms. Kavanagh said, "The kids are amazing" and " I am excited to go to work". Not many people can say that with confidence.



Profile: Culinary

Meghan Pettit is a sophomore involved with the culinary vocational program. She has been cooking ever since her mom went for a trip to Canada when she was younger. Meghan began by making boxed macaroni, and has progressed since. At home, she serves one meal a week for her family. Her favorite foods to cook are desserts, and especially cookies.

In culinary class, she has made clam chowder and white beans, dressing for caesar salads, pork, chicken, and swordfish. She has served food at events for the Young Brothers to Men, MVRHS Bistro, and staff lunches. The only unpleasant part of cooking is, in Meaghan's opinion, cleaning the dirty dishes.

Meghan would like to go to the Culinary Institute of America (CIA), NY. She watches the food network and collects recipes with the hope of making a cookbook one day. Her ideas are to make a book that goes all out with desserts and another book that shows ways of eating healthier meals. She wants to find ways to substitute healthy ingredients for less healthy "junk" in recipes.

Whale Watch

Students who took Mr. McCarthy's English class had the pleasure of reading Herman Melville's Moby Dick. As a special treat, any students who completed to difficult task were allowed to go to Provincetown for a real Whale Watch. First the group was given some time to venture the local streets of P-town and then boarded to ship for a 3 hour tour into the open waters. On this beautifully sunny day they saw over half a dozen whales and families of dolphins. What a sight it was!

Sophomore Profiles:

Julia Sadowski was born on the island and previously went to the Edgartown School. She is a part of the cross country team, and runs the two mile, one mile, and the 800 meter events for the track team. Julia is a writer for the school newspaper and helps her fellow classmates as a member of Peer Outreach. She participates in Cultura Club and is fundraising to go to Boston to learn Peruvian dances and to learn about the Spanish countries and their culture.

Julia is a talented member of the music department, and has been playing the violin for 12 years. She has been in the early morning orchestra at the Tisbury and the West Tisbury Schools since middle school. For several years she has taken private lessons once a week.

She has proudly won the Heritage project with a poem. During her free time, Julia enjoys running, reading, and watching movies. A favorite band is Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers. She likes to hang around Mocha Motts with her friends and drink coffee. She has been to Boston and Florida with her family. One of her dreams is to travel to Europe and encounter new people and opportunities.

Thiago Junqueira is currently a sophomore at MVRHS. After living in Campos do Jordao, Brazil, Thiago moved to the Vineyard in 2005. He attended the Tisbury School, where he played volleyball. He feels school is a "good way to meet new people." His favorite subject is math and he loves rock music. Some of his favorite artists are Nirvana, Bush, Shine Down, and Hurt. Thiago also enjoys epic films like Gladiator, and Troy. He plans on going to college where hopes to learn about architecture.

Thought Process - Ben Williams

I'm being a being of me.
How quaint.
Teacher.
Teach her.
Show me that weariness
Is a passing phase. I learn
From her. Teach her. Please.

We saw things in audibility.
I make up words. Points cross.
So what. 15 children die. So what.
If our infant mortality was Higher, then what. More live
So more die. But I'm weary.
Tired of being wired.

Pointlessness reciprocates. Hand me a
Bucket. I flip it over and Stand on it. My voice is heard.
Hand me a speaker.
Now I'm louder.

See voices. Feel beat. My ideas
Think like baubles on a tree.
Christmas. I'm the decoration.
Flash. I'm the G. I Joe. Neatly
Wrapped. Yay. I'm the smile.
I'm not the spirit. I
Don't know what feeling is.
I'm a commercial. I've Never seen the product. You
Buy what I'm sellin'. I'm Always sellin'. Like China. Import
Not. I sell everything. Sell my
Happy. Sell your sad. Sell myself
As a being who bes.

I'm not lost. I simply haven't sought
The path yet. I'm the inevitable
Bear victim. Tossing twigs
And other various metaphors
To impede a charging grizzly.
Sink you tooth into that.
Chip off its sudden
Substance. Use your tongue
To caress, to smooth, cunningly.
To drool off and wag obediently to
A collective conscious. Someone Used their leg and foot to Move my bucket and we're all
Falling down. My pedestal was short Lived.

Junior Profiles:

Taylor Stone moved from Nashua, NH in the fifth grade and attended the Edgartown school. She is a junior this year. She takes dance classes with Danceworks, Laura Sargent, Jil Matriseiano, and Sandy Stone. She has studied tap, modern, and lyrical dance techniques. She has been a dancer in the school plays, "Grease," "Camelot," and the "Chorus Line." Taylor is an alto in Minnesingers for her second year. She plans to travel to Austria and Munich in the spring. Taylor has been a member in her church choir at St.. Andrews for four years. They sing at Trinity Church often and have performed a Christmas concert.

Taylor is the assistant art editor in the newspaper. She is the co-president in WINFO. They discuss women's issues and are planning for a magazine called "Zine" that will hopefully be handed out to the community to raise awareness. She has been in chess club for her freshmen and sophomore years. They have tournaments against other schools off-island. She has dissected a dogfish and gone star glazing with the science club. She is a Class Representative in student council. She is in anime club for the second year in a row. They have drawing classes and watch anime movies. They are raising money for a trip to Anime Boston, where the group will dress up as characters, look at other people's drawings, go to shows, and participate in contests. The students themselves can have their own drawings presented at the Art Gallery as well. With another church group from Orleans, Taylor went to Mississippi twice for one week. She have helped to build houses. She has been in Saferides for three years as an advertiser and she picks up calls from students.

Her dream is to be an art teacher. She wants to go to Savannah college of Art Design.

Janelle Fortes has lived on the island for her entire life. In school she keeps busy by joining clubs, and playing music and sports. In art club, she is finishing some art work for a portfolio. She takes a drawing and painting class and uses materials such as graphic pencils, pastel, and water color. In Seabreezes she and other students take art, poetry, and creative writing submissions and organize them into a magazine.

This year will be her third year on the track team, and she will compete in the shot put and discus. She plays the baritone saxophone for band and jazz band. She has been a member of concert band for eight years.

Some of her favorite movies are Lucky Number Slevin, and Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid. Her favorite TV show is House. Some songs she likes are Sailor Girl by the Shins, Silver Meadows by the Colours, Stronger by Kanye West, and The World May Never Know by Dr. Dog. She is of Native American, Scottish, English, Portuguese and African American descent. In the summer she works at Bowl and Board full time. She likes to swim, crew, go to the movies and sleep in.

This February Janelle went to Spain. She has also been to Nova Scotia. After she is done with school she would like to move to the city for a little while, maybe Seattle or Boston. She hopes to visit Europe and Tibet one day.

Janelle would like to go to an Art School. She is hoping to go to the School of the Museum of Fine Arts or PRAT. She wants to become an illustrator for children's books.

Junior Life

It would seem that Juniors enjoy holidays. Just look at these folks, all suited up to celebrate Halloween (above), and Hanukkah (below). I think that Juniors do other things too, but just what, I cannot say.

Junior Art

As you can see, there are some talented juniors here at MVRHS.

Junior Sports

From kayaking at Felix Neck in brisk fall mornings to exploring the jogging trails in the state forest, the Junior class has come to know sports beyond the sports field. With some of the island 's best scenery a couple minutes away, the students are exposed to all of Mother's Nature's gifts; all throughout their physical education class. Other activities range from volleyball to capture-the-flag to tennis.

SPRING
SPORTS

Profiles:

Cole Bilodeau was born and raised on the island and is now a freshman. He joined the football and baseball team. In the summer, he goes to the beach and enjoys sailing. He sailed optimists and amazingly won the Junior Regatta in 2006. Cole has worked at Cozy's Last Stand at the Agriculture Fair. Not only does he have a sailboat, but he shares many adventures to the Caribbean and Florida with family. When Cole was young, he went to the West Tisbury play and heard a violin performance. The musician inspired him. Ever since he has taken private lessons once a week and has done so for 10 years.

Emily Carter is one of the busiest seniors this year. She is starting the year off with the cross country team. This is her first year, but she is very excited to join. She is also in the school orchestra. Emily is part of the string quartet. She is a violist. She plays at the senior luncheon for the elders at Windemere and the community. During her free time, Emily hikes, skis at Loon Mountain, snowboards, and swims at the Mansion House. Emily grew up in Boston and moved here eight years ago. Her family loves to travel. They have been to Taiwan, Italy, Canada and California. Emily went with the Orchestra class to Italy. They played at the Saci (International School of Art). They went on a tour and saw both Rome and Florence. She said, "Pizza there was more amazing than here." They also went swimming in the Mediterranean Sea.

In the summer, she works at the Oak Bluffs school. She is a counselor of the Treasure Our Island Camp, which is part of the Y. The children go to the beach and kayak. They have trips around the island and Emily is the lifeguard. She volunteers at Felix Neck for a couple months of the year showing the tourists the crabs, lobsters, and the different fish.

With the addition of a brand new field, The Field of Dreams, the Vineyard Baseball team took the field with high hopes for a new season. On the field's inauguration day, the Vineyard fittingly won their first game of the year against Bourne High School. Tad Gold hit the field's first home run ever. Despite a 2-18 record at the end the season, the Vineyarder's love for the game was apparent regardless of the score.

Softball

Led by tri-captains Jackie Panek, Britney Stone, and Kelly Silvia, the 2007 Varsity Softball team finished in strong and impressive fashion. Last season, the Vineyarders saw their first no-hitter in more than 20 years at Greater New Bedford and stunned the defending Eastern Mass Division I champ, Dighton-Rehoboth. The Vineyard also defeated 2007 ACL champ, Dennis-Yarmouth, twice in late-inning, drama-filled games. Last season, seven seniors graduated, leaving the team to be led by Julie Perry, Emily Sobel, Brittany Devaney, and Lauren Williston.

Boy's Lacrosse

During the 2007 Spring season, the Martha's Vineyard Regional High school Boy's Lacrosse Team successfully made it to the state tournament with a .500 record, but lost a close game in the first round of the playoffs to Marble Head. The team improved throughout the season and made a run at the end to qualify for the post season. Early in the season they lost a heartbreaker to their rival Nantucket in triple over-time, but were ready when Nantucket played here, beating them 9-3.

Girl's Lacrosse

The 2007 girls lacrosse team had another tough but great season. Preseason began with an exciting win against girls from England in the pouring rain. Although they started off with two loses, they picked it right up and won against Nantucket at home. Their record ended up 6-10-2. Zoe Fisher had another great season in goal and seniors, Alaina Aristide (Captain), Amanda Cavanaugh (Captain) and defenseman Colleen Farrissey had a terrific spring on the field.

Tennis

Last year, the MVRHS Boy's Tennis Team was held together by Senior Captains, Tim McHugh and Jonah Lipsky. Beginning with a rough start, the team strived to pick up their game for the second half of the season. Winning 8 of their last 10 matches, the team ended with a final record of 12-6. Coach Ned Fennessy once again kept the team's spirits up and rackets low. Freshman Win Grimm, held his spot for most of the season on Varsity's second doubles. Good luck to upcoming Captains Dan Han and Seth Seeman and to another great year.

TRAVEL

IRELAND

On April 11th, twenty three students embarked on a journey that led them to the ancient Stone Age society at Ceide Fields, the edges of the Cliffs of Moher, the cells of Kilmainham Jail, and even to the small country town where John Wayne's "The Quiet Man" was filmed. Seeing both the eastern shore at Dublin City's Abbey Theatre to the western coasts of Mayo, this trip was a great way to get to experience Irish life and culture.

In the spring of 2007, 20 French students from the high school traveled to France. They visited many areas including Nice, Arles, Aix, and Paris. They learned about the cultural aspects of different regions in France. The students made their own perfume, went shopping, and even learned how to fence. The trip was a great learning experience for all.

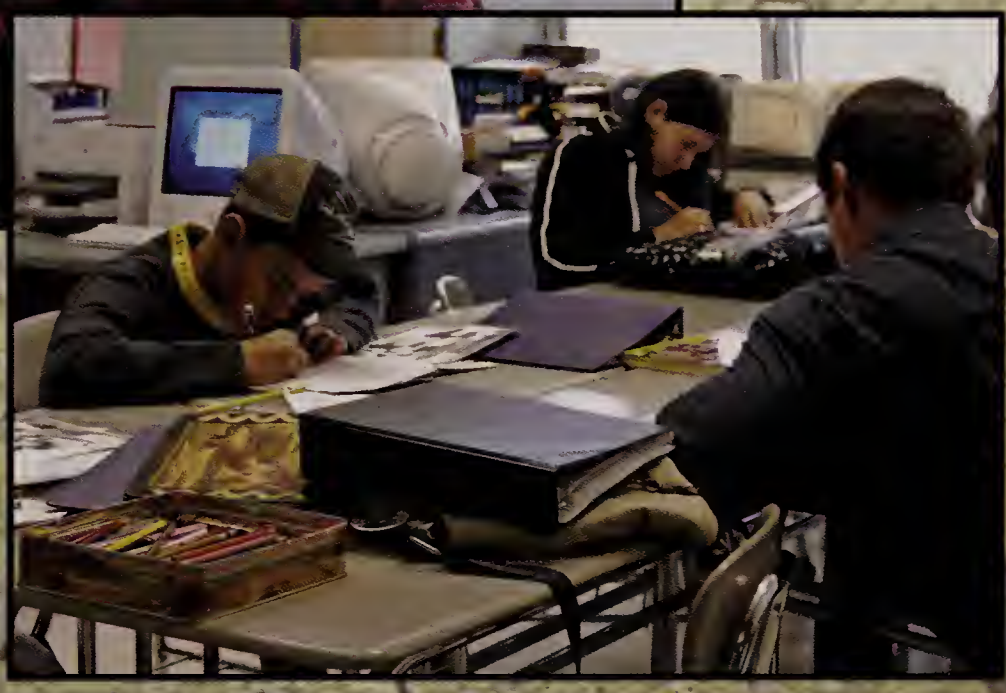
Close Up is a national organization that empowers high school students by teaching them about the federal government processes. Students stayed at the Chevy Chase Hotel in Maryland. Every day they were involved in serious discussions and debates involving national topics. Topics included immigration and abortion. They also visited the United States capital, Holocaust Museum, Lincoln Memorial, Vietnam Veterans Memorial and the offices of Senator Kerry and Congressman Delahunt.

As a final treat the group had the opportunity of entering the United States Supreme Court during an open hearing. Although security was a nightmare, the trip was a fun and rewarding experience for all who participated.

ESL



MVRHS has a very helpful program for the new incoming students. The program is called ESL (English as a Second Language), and it helps the ELL (English Language Learner) students learn English. The ELL students come from all over the world, so the program not only helps them improve their English, but also helps them ease into the school as a new student.

There are many different levels of English for the students. Matt Malowski teaches ESL 1 and 2. He teaches those students who have never heard English before. To teach his students, he uses a lot of visuals, games, repetition, and practice. When asked how long it usually takes a student to learn English in his class, he said, "It depends on how much education the student has had in their native language, and how much they want to learn." He commented that it is sometimes hard to teach the ESL students because they speak their native language too much, and also he does not speak Portuguese. In spite of this, however, Mr. Malowski also comments, "It's just fun. We just laugh so much. A lot of our students this year are very dedicated. They know how to work, and it makes my job much easier."

Jacquie Callahan teaches ESL 3 and Reading and Writing. She helps the students improve their English and get ready to enter their new English class. Dianne Norton, another ESL teacher, teaches ESL Support and Sheltered English for the students that are more comfortable with the language. She says that she tries to take English skills from her students' lives or from their class work and help them learn a good English vocabulary and grammar skills so they can use them. "It is not hard," Ms. Norton says. "Everybody wants to learn the language of the country that they are living in." She says that the ELL students like being in a class that is designed for a second language student. She, like Mr. Malowski, says that she enjoys working with the students and learning their culture.

Together, the three ESL teachers help the ELL students build a bridge from their ESL 1 class to a mainstream English class. These helpful and dedicated teachers have been an important part of many students' lives for years.

Profile: International

My name is Fabio Motta. I'm 17 and I was born in America. My parents are from Sao Mateus, Brazil, in the state of Espirito Santos. I have lived in America for my entire life. I like living here, and I have never had a hard time getting along with different people. I play soccer at MVRHS and I really enjoy it. I don't think the US is all that different from Brazil, which is why I would like to live here forever.

My name is Andrew Lin, and I'm from Taipei, Taiwan. I've been living here for two months and I like it so far. Sometimes I have a hard time getting along with different people, though. People here are more open and friendly, but I would not like to live here my whole life.

My name is Emily Targbeh. I'm 18 and I was born in Liberia. I lived in Liberia for five years, and then I moved to Cote D'Ivoire. I miss Africa a lot. I've been living here for three and a half years, and so far, it's OK. I have had some bad experiences with the people here, but it's gotten better since freshman year. I couldn't speak English when I first came to the high school, so that made the experience really hard. I do not want to live here my whole life, and I plan on going back to Ghana or Cote D'Ivoire sometime soon.

Drama

Last spring the drama department put on two plays. The first, a musical, Camelot. This was a school performance put on for the students and community. The second was a short play created and produced by our own theater department called Boxes. Our school competed in a state-wide theater competition and made it to the finals in Boston. Out of 129 schools, we ranked in the top 15. Our group (shown bottom-right) received 3 awards in the final round. Two for All Star Acting, and one for Exceptional Stage Management. The play was written by own very own Kate Murray and Television 2 class.

Mixed Chorus is a class in which students get to explore songs from different time periods, languages, and genres.

Freshman Chorus an introduction to the vocal courses. Students learn how to sing and define what kind of voice they have. They learn how to sing together as a group.

Minnesingers represent a continuation of the French Troubadour tradition. Their songs deal mainly with the theme of courtly love. This vocal group is a more selective and advanced class at the MVRHS and one can only be accepted through beginning of the year tryouts.

"Words mean more than what is set down on paper. It takes the human voice to infuse them with deeper meaning." - Maya Angelou

Orchestra

String players from all the elementary schools come together as an orchestra when they enter the high school. They perform together for the winter and spring concerts in the PAC. For graduation at the end of the year, the orchestra and band perform a final goodbye to embarking seniors. They perform pieces by composers such as Vivaldi, Corelli, Pachelbel, and Handel.

"Music expresses that which cannot be said and on which it is impossible to be silent." - Victor Hugo

Kiln Firing

"There was a contagious feeling of excitement among all present; the excitement that came from being a part of a real process. Some present had dug the clay that went in to the pots, while still others had shaped them, and now all were helping to cook them, turning them from earth to functional, beautiful pottery. Most people aren't lucky enough to be a part of this process, and do not have the opportunity in their daily lives to make something, from beginning to end. Our dishes come to us pre-made from some far-off land, as does the food that will go on it. We become disconnected with the process that births these objects, and they lose their sacredness. But we were creating something."
-Micah Thanhauser

"Common clay must go through the heat and fire of the furnace to become porcelain. But once porcelain , it can never become clay again."

PHOTOGRAPHY

Photo and Graphics is a series— of classes that teach and strengthen one's skills at fixing, developing, organizing and critiquing photography. The classes also introduce students to the world of Adobe editing. With both Mr. Baer and Mr. Brissette as guides, students in the program are able to learn both the technical and artistic sides of photography and graphic design.

"You don't take a photograph, you make it." - Ansel Adams

3D Design

Paul Brissette has been an art teacher for 15 years. He went to Mass. College of Art for one year and then received his masters in two years from Syracuse. He helped design the new high school and render the West Tisbury Library,

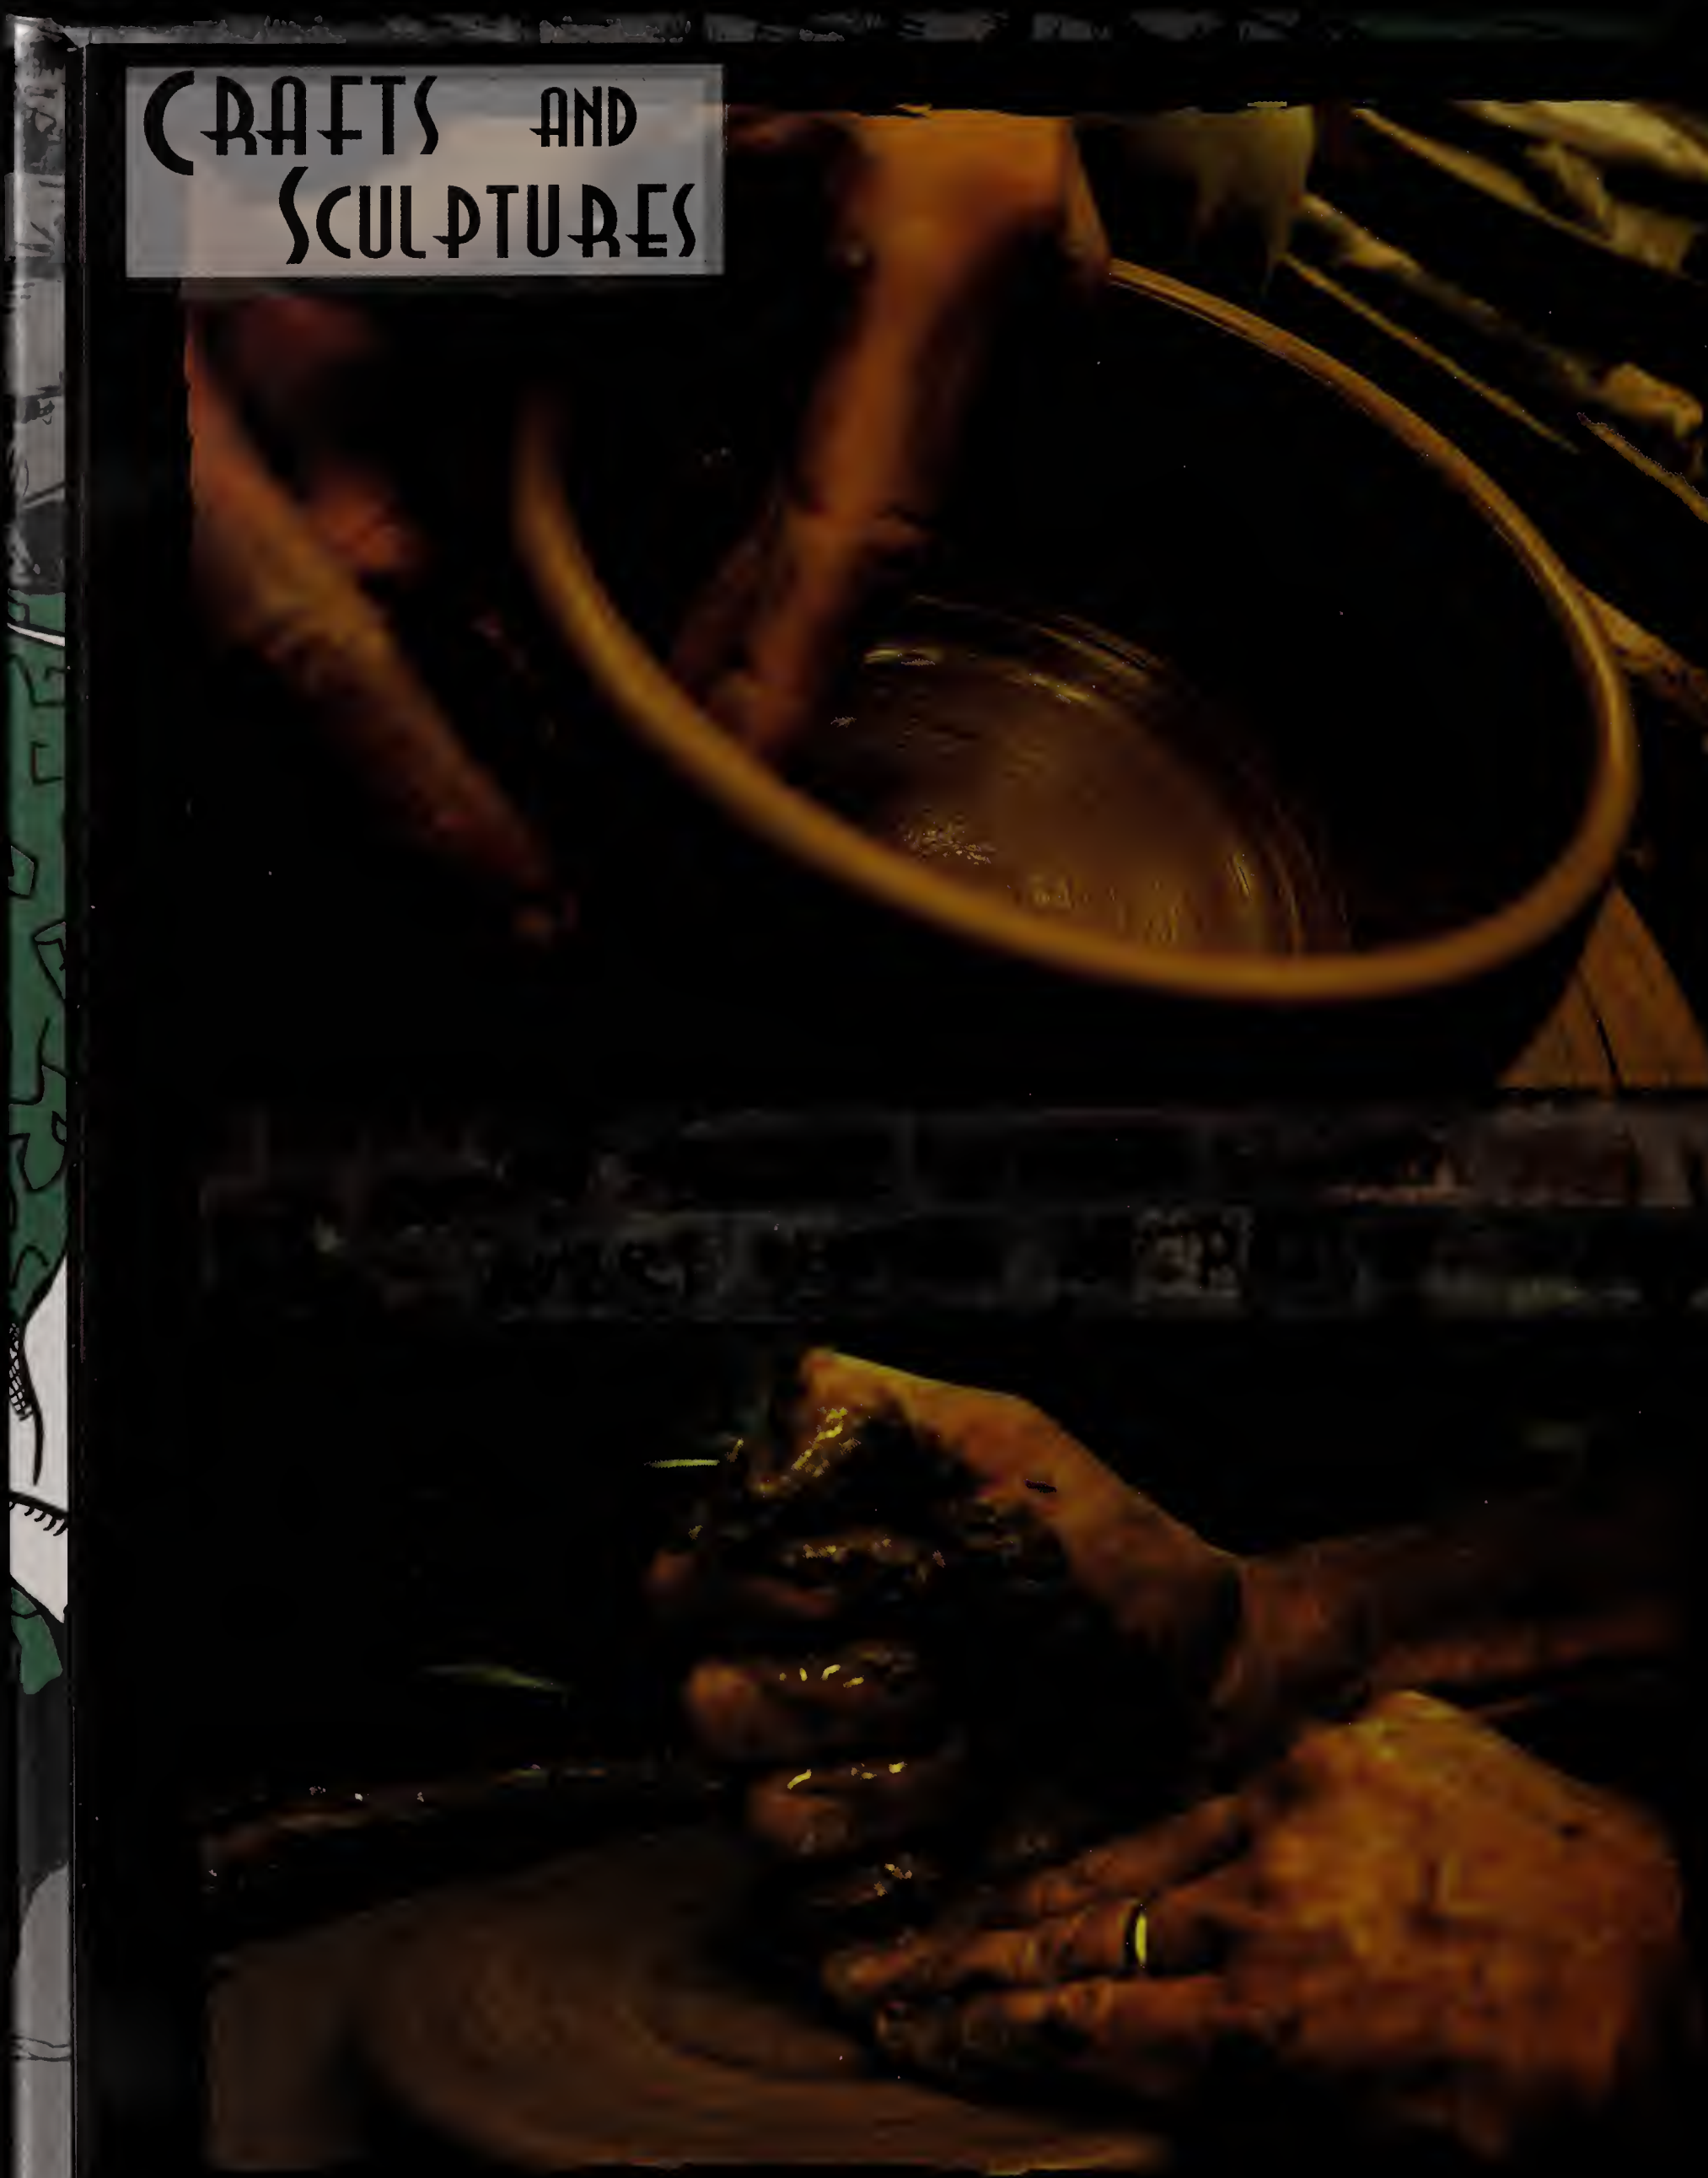
He is a certified Yoga instructor and hopes to teach yoga classes after he retires. He enjoys building relief sculptures and woodworking. He has also traveled around the world to places such as Thailand, Indonesia, Japan, and Brazil.

Paul Brissette's architecture class has been in the school for only five years. In the first semester, the students pick out a small house to replicate. They learn how to draw the different elevations, first floor, second floor, electric system, and an isometric view. In the process, the students learn the types of roof tops, the structures of the house, and the varieties of windows and doors. They make blueprints and render the house afterwards.

In the second semester of architecture, the students use their knowledge from the first semester to design their own house. It is almost like their dream house. If they want a 20 foot ceiling in the living room or a huge patio, then they can create one. This course requires a prerequisite because the measurements and structures have be exact to make their dream house possible.

"There are three forms of visual art. Painting is art to look at. sculpture is art you can walk around and architecture is art you can walk through" -Dan Rice

CRAFTS AND SCULPTURES



"But now, O LORD, thou art our father; we are the clay, and thou our potter; and we all are the work of thy hand."

FRESHMAN CLASS

Profile: Seniors

Rachel Schubert: student council president, newspaper editor in chief, and soccer player extraordinaire. She is a senior, and ready to graduate, but she feels that MVRHS has given her much. She "likes to keep busy," and has participated in a wide range of activities while here at MVRHS. She has fond memories of being in the musical Grease Sophomore year, but the most important parts of her time here for her have been the newspaper "The High School View," and the soccer team.

She has played varsity soccer since freshman year, and says that playing a sport helped her acclimate to the high school. She remembers that "it was nice to see familiar senior faces in the hall when I was a freshman," and she recommends playing a sport.

When she was little she "wanted to be a professional soccer player." Now she still does, but has the perspective to see that it is not all that likely. Perspective is something Rachel thinks about often, and her biggest complaint about high school is that she feels that it forms a bubble, and she wishes that there could be a greater opportunity for students to go abroad, and experience a wider range of perspectives.

She wants to go to college somewhere far away, and plans to spend a year abroad. She says that she sees college sort of like she used to see high school, but the reality of things is usually much lower key than her expectations, and nearly always includes less parades and fireworks.

Colin Day is a model student. Senior class president, co-president of model UN, and a honor student to boot. He has come a long way from his humble beginnings as a timid freshmen making the supposedly difficult switch from the charter to regional high school.

He was a little surprised to be welcomed as warmly as he was, and finds that his years here at MVRHS have helped him develop his "fantastic sense of humor." He also thinks that he was "more of a jerk" freshman year than he is now. As if that weren't enough, he also feels that he has "discovered his passion for sports," especially lacrosse. He says that he has learned the "soulessness" necessary to succeed in high school, but he says it with a laugh.

Some highlights of his high school experience were his trip to Italy with Orchestra, and his freshmen and Sophomore English teachers, Ms. Ramsey, and Mr. Sawyer. His email address is Photo627, highlighting both his passion for photography, and his Edgartown/Chappaquidic pride. He "wouldn't mind" being rich, and he wants everyone to know that he "aint no wimp."

Hello, and greetings from the staff of the 2008 Martha's Vineyard yearbook. We tried to do alot of things with this book, alot of great things. We tried our darndest to make this the best yearbook to ever grace the shelves of the MVRHS library. We would like to extend a thank you to all those who helped to make this possible, you know who you are. And we would like to apologize in advance for the people we left out, and the errors we made (see opposite cartoon). Anyways, what I'm trying to say is that we worked really hard on this and if you don't like it we'll cry. So thank you MVRHS, and goodbye.
